

WHY ALL THIS PROPAGANDA ASKS KNOX

PENNSYLVANIA SENATOR AS-SAULTS PROPOSED CONSTITU-TION AS STRIKING DOWN
U. S. RIGHTS.

PROPOSES NEW BODY

Suggests International Organization
Comprising All Countries of World; Framed on Broad Basis.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 1.—Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, republican, former secretary of state, speaking today
in the senate assailed the league of nations as striking down American principles and proposed a new world organization which he said would preserve the Monroe doctrine and save America from the results
of European intrigue and aggression.

Senator Knox said the constitution
of the league as presented to the peace conference "sanctions, breeds and encourages" and "it encloses
various clauses of the document asked:
"Why this feverish anxiety for the adoption of this plan? Why this racing
up and down the land by propaganda gangs urging its adoption? What benefit is to come from such a sale of the country as is urged upon us? Who are the beneficiaries of this betrayal of our people?"

Proposes International Body
The Pennsylvania senator said that if the people of the United States desired what he termed a real league of nations to prevent war and to merely build a coalition to further trade and preserve and expand an international organization, comprising
all the nations of the world.

Senator Knox said the constitution
of such an international coalition should primarily declare war on international
crime and stipulate that any nation
engaging in it except in self defense
should be treated as an international criminal. He also suggested that the constitution provide that international disputes be decided by an international court according to international law and that no nation
could summon another before the court
unless the subject under discussion was of common concern
to the contending nations and that jurisdiction of the court could not extend to matters of governmental policy.

In opening his address, Senator Knox said he was against war even to the extent of seeing the United States
make the utmost sacrifices possible.
He said he was not against war when the offering of the United States had been placed upon the altar and burned
and that proportionately advanced
the cause of human liberty and happiness.

Criticizes "Looseness"
Senator Knox criticized the proposed constitution of the league of nations for "looseness of expression"
and because it appeared to set up two operating entities for its enforcement.
"The high contracting parties," and the league itself, he said, "are separated by a wide chasm, the importance of this became apparent when it was observed that the high contracting parties did not comprise every member in the league and that the burden assumed by the high contracting parties, who ever they may be, possibly the 'big five' is crushing
in its weight."

Would Join Central Powers
The senator warned especially against leaving the central powers out of the league saying the inevitable result would be to drive them
closer together for self protection,
thus making the formation of a second
league of nations bidding for adherence from neutral states almost a certainty.

Even the term league of nations
is a deceptive misnomer, Senator Knox declared, "for under this proposed plan the nations of the world would be divided into two groups, the first the signatories of the conviction; these are not named, but it is assumed they will include and possibly be confined to the British empire,
France, Italy, Japan and the United States.

"Second, states not signatory but named in the protocol.
"Third, those states which are neither signatories nor protocol states
and which must be admitted to the league, be prepared to give certain effective guarantees to the international obligations. These latter are outcast nations and presumably include
the central powers and their allies in the war.

The term league is a misnomer in another and really vital matter. For a league connotes a confederation,
and a confederation implies a right
in the several parties to withdraw at their will. But there is no right of cessation within the four corners of this covenant. Once in this union and remain there no matter how onerous
its gigantic burdens may become.

For the body of delegates Senator Knox's chief criticism was that the constitution contained no provisions
for their appointment, removal, compensation, or tenure.
Senator Knox objected to the formation of the executive council because it would be composed of only nine of half a hundred states and practically would be given the power to declare war, make its own laws, sit
as a court and pass judgment and then determine the means of enforcing its judgments.

Questions Labor Provision
Provisions for the mandatory commission, Senator Knox thought, were indefinite as to organization and operation. Of the bureau of labor he asked whether it was the intent to put labor of all countries upon an equality.
"In this alleged instrument of peace," Senator Knox asserted, war
is legalized in cases and made compulsory in three.

Second Regulars Capture Greatest Number of Crosses For Gallantry
In Action.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 1.—Battle
deaths during the war among all participants so far as available statistics
show were given today by General March as 7,354,000. This represents only men killed in action or died of wounds.

In the list Russia led with a total of 1,700,000; Germany was second with 1,600,000; and the United States
last with 50,000.

Approximate figures for other nations were: France 1,385,000; England
800,000; Italy 450,000; Turkey 400,
000; Belgium 100,000; Roumania
100,000; Serbia and Montenegro 100, 000.

Of the total of 3,918 distinguished service crosses awarded for gallantry
in action to American soldiers, General March announced today, 684, or more than double the number given to any other division, went to the Second regulars. The First division of regulars came next with 300 crosses. The Third regulars with 238, was third.

The 26th (New England national guard) the fourth in the list with 529 crosses. The First national guard and national army divisions.

The 42nd (Rainbow) came next with 205 and then 30th with 177. The 27th division (New York national guard) next on the high seas returning home, received 130. The 77th
(also a New York division) received 148.

Demobilization of the army had resulted up yesterday 1,301,953 officers and men. General March announced today. Of the total 77,542
were officers. Demobilization orders
now have reached a total of 1,571,000.

LABOR MEASURES TO BE HEARD MARCH 12

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, March 1.—The assembly
committee on labor has set Wednesday, March 12, for the hearing of all bills bearing on labor unions, injunction, and conspiracy. Two such bills have already been drafted, those offered by Assemblymen Otto and M.
Turner, representing the State Federation of Labor, and Senator Arnold have introduced similar bills. The Knappe bill was referred to the judiciary committee but was recalled today to go to the committee on labor.

The Arnold bill was scheduled to be heard before the committee Wednesday, at which time the author offered a substitute amendment, while Glenn Knapp and Senator Arnold have introduced similar bills. After considerable argument by attorneys and others for
and against, it was decided to postpone the hearing for two weeks, when all the bills go before the committee.

Uruguay Starts Out on Commission Government

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Montevideo, March 1.—With the inauguration of Dr. Baltasar Brum as president today, Uruguay begins a new form of government, the commission being formed of the president, elected by the direct vote of the people, and nine commissioners appointed by the legislature.

Coalition government is assured
as the commission contains three members of the political party opposed to the president.

Serbian Princess Joins Prince Regent in Paris

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Geneva, Friday, Feb. 28.—Princess
Henriette of Serbia passed through Geneva yesterday for Paris, where she will join her brother, Prince Regent
Alexander of Serbia. Her husband, Duke Jean Constantino, has been murdered before her eyes at Perm
and the princess with her two children barely escaped the same fate.
They fled to Copenhagen in disguise.

New York never saw so many beauties together at one time as it saw the other night at the artists' ball. All the leading artists of New York were there, and each brought his most beautiful models. The Swanson sisters are Artist Russell's favorite models, and Miss Hoyt, who posed with them at the ball for this picture, is the fiancée of Mr. G. Patrick Nelson, a noted cosmopolitan illustrator.

HOUSING CORPORATION TO MEET MARCH 19

The organization meeting of stockholders in the Janesville Housing corporation will be held at the Municipal court room, March 19.
The date for the first stockholders
meeting was set at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. The board is acting as official sponsor of the corporation, and will relinquish all executive power as soon as the corporation is formed.

William McVicar, chairman of the housing committee, made a final report of the amount of stock as $75,400
in the last campaign, or a total of $179, 400 subscribed by local people. With the $100,000 promised by W. C. Duncan, president of the General Motors corporation, this makes a total of $279,400.

"The sale of stock will be greater than that," stated Mr. McVicar. "The housing committee has been offered a number of lots in exchange for stock, but has no authority to accept them. They will be held until the corporation has been formed, when the board will be authorized to accept them. These lots will bring the grand total close to $300,000, the incorporating capital."

The board of directors of the new corporation and its officers will be chosen at the March 19 meeting. An effort will probably be made to get actual construction work under way
as soon as possible, in order that the influx of newcomers may be provided with adequate living facilities.

FAVORS CONSTRUCTION OF PUBLIC BUILDING

The Chamber of Commerce went on record yesterday as strongly favoring
the construction of public works during the transition period, when it
telegraphed Senator Moke Smith,
chairman of the committee on education and labor, urging support of the Kenyon bill.

The bill, over which there has been much controversy, provides for the creation of a United States emergency public works board. Its purpose would be the provision of sufficient public work to increase employment during the period of demobilization.

Builders' Insurance Company to Expand

Members of the Builders' Exchange
were told last night of a new plan
of the Builders' Limited Mutual Liability Insurance company to write insurance for contractors outside of the state by H. L. Giesler, Milwaukee, general manager of the company.
Local contractors are members of the company, so that the plan to enlarge directly affects them. The firm has up to this time been writing insurance only in this state, but requests from Iowa and Indiana have been numerous, and it was decided to increase the reserve fund to care
for increased business.

Charity Contributions Deducted From Income

Washington, March 1.—Contributions to war chest funds, war campaign community funds, and similar enterprises in support of war relief
work may be deducted in figuring net income for taxation purposes the internal revenue bureau announced today. Gifts or donations to churches
or to funds for church activities similarly are deductible.

CITY PLANNER ASKED TO TAKE CHARGE HERE

John Nolan, Boston, one of the most prominent city planners in the United States, was telegraphed to Janesville yesterday to take charge of the city planning committee.
Nolan, who has a long record of public work, is being asked to take charge of the city planning committee
at the Chamber of Commerce rooms
yesterday.

A resolution to proceed at it in securing an intelligent understanding of Janesville's needs passed unanimously.
As a result a complete survey of the city is to be made. Edward Amer-pohl, chairman of the committee, appeared before the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at 4 o'clock
to request an appropriation of funds sufficient for the preliminary steps of the committee.

Mr. Nolan has been asked to come to this city immediately for a preliminary survey.
His record of achievements includes
work done in Akron, Ohio, and Bridgeport, Conn. He was engaged to supervise the city planning at Flint,
Mich., where that city had a population of 40,000 in 1917. Since that time the General Motors corporation
interests have increased the population to 80,000.

Other cities where Mr. Nolan has been engaged are Erie, Pa., Niagara Falls, N. Y., San Diego, Cal., St. Paul,
Minn., Keokuk, Ia., Milwaukee, Wis.,
LaCrosse, and a score of others.

PROGRAM MAPPED OUT

Efforts to Pass Five Important Meas-

Working For Extra Session.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 1.—Minority Leader Lodge today issued a call for a conference of republic-
can senators at 5:30 o'clock this evening to consider whether concerted action should be taken in support of the victory loan bill
by opposition to the victory
loan bill authorizing seven billion dollars of new securities. To give time for the republican conference an agreement was reached between democratic and republic-
can leaders for a recess of the senate from 5:30 to 7 p. m.

Washington, March 1.—Although house leaders today mapped out a definite legislative program for the closing days of congress the outcome of virtually all legislation was still held
in doubt because of the continued dispute between senate democrats and republicans over the question of an extra session, hinging largely on disposition of the "victory loan" bill.

Another informal conference of republican leaders called for later today
was expected to determine whether an effort will be made to defeat the measure, in the hope of forcing President Wilson to call an extra session. Democratic leaders declared that they would force the issue by calling up
the loan bill and if necessary hold the senate in continuous session until noon
March 4.

Hold Lively Conferences.
During the day the republicans held
numerous lively conferences.
To pass five important measures before the house adjourns next week
were decided on today by the house leaders. The measures will be taken up as follows:
Resolution authorizing an appropriation of $100,000,000 for the reclamation and settlement of land by discharged soldiers, and bill providing for retirement on pension of civil service employees, a bill for deportation
of interned enemy aliens, the resolution
instructing American delegates to the peace conference to use the name of the United States, and a resolution ordering an investigation of New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges.

No Action on Wire Control.
No action will be made in the house
to pass the resolution ending government wire control Dec. 31.

WILL HE OR WON'T HE RUN IS QUESTION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 1.—In regard to published reports that President Wilson told democratic committeemen
who lunched with him yesterday that he would not accept nomination today
at the city hall, it was stated today
that the subject of President Wilson again being a candidate was not mentioned. It was explained that the president merely remarked that he yearned to get back to writing and that he had in contemplation the compiling of a history.

explosion was believed to be due to anarchistic literature here, according to the police, who were inclined today to connect this propaganda with the explosion.

Prison Bars Yield to Song and Women in Plot to Free Sinn Feiner Leader

Paris, March 1.—How Edward De Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, escaped
from Lincoln prison in England, Feb.
3, has become known here. It was related to the Associated Press by Sean O'Cealligh, the Sinn Fein, who is asking the peace conference to recognize the "provisional government
of the Irish republic."

"After the arrest of De Valera at Graystone," Mr. O'Cealligh said, "he with 12 comrades was sent to Lincoln prison. The strictest watch was maintained on them. The most stringent censorship possible was maintained over their mail. Included among the prisoners in the various jails were 37 members of parliament. After the general elections a meeting of republican members of the Irish parliament was appointed to take charge of the release of the incarcerated men.
The first result of that committee's activity was the escape of De Valera."

"Friend" Works in Garden.
The prison lay in an isolated part of the town. The next move was to communicate with De Valera, and one Sinn Fein started working a garden plot. He attracted De Valera's attention by singing Sinn Fein songs in Gaeltic in which he told the leader
that an attempt would be made to rescue him.

"This man appeared again several days later and again sang a ballad in which he asked De Valera to secure an impression of the key to the rear gate.
"The impression of the key was secured, I presume, by making a paste
of bread and soap and then distract-

been declared in Madrid and troops are patrolling the streets. This action was the result of rioting against profiteers
today, and looting and smashing shops
being attacked by mobs.

The government has taken pos-

Bavaria Diet Adjourned
Munich, March 1.—The soldiers and workmen's council at Munich has discussed a constitution for Bavaria, according to a dispatch reaching here and has declared that "for considerations
of safety and by reason of the confused situation of the country, the Bavarian diet is adjourned and the soldiers and workmen's assembly shall be known as the provisional national council until a new congress which could be summoned later meets."

Spartan forces offered feeble resistance when government troops took Hamburg, Thursday. At Essen a number of strikers is now estimated at 5,100.

Sees Black Future.
Weimer, Thursday, Feb. 28.—Although the government has officially announced that it is not worried by the strike situation at Halle and Leipzig,
a member of the national assembly
said today that he "sees a black future."

Even if the strike at Halle has not been given official recognition there are strikes at other places where there are no government troops. The strikers have declared they would circumvent and cut it off from the rest of Germany.

200,000 Idle in Berlin.
Berlin, Friday, Feb. 28.—Two hundred thousand persons have officially
been declared idle in Berlin because of the general strike, which is extending into Southern and Central Germany. Railway communication between Berlin and Southern Germany has been cut off completely.

Railways Tied Up
Copenhagen, March 1.—The paralysis of railway transportation in Germany is growing more serious, according to dispatches from Berlin. All communication with Halle, even by telephone was completely interrupted Friday. No trains left Berlin for Leipzig late Friday.

JEWISH QUESTION AGITATES POLISH DIET

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Warsaw, Thursday, Feb. 27.—The Jewish question is being agitated in the Polish diet. The debate

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

It's common to shout when the race is run and the victory's won. It's easy to smile when the skies are blue and your friends are true. It's nothing to laugh when the prize is won and the battle's done. But to conjure a smile when the skies are gray, When your friends in success have all turned away— Then comes the real test: Do you stand? Do you fall? In retreat—not defeat—can you smile through it all?

This choice gem of thought is from the pen of F. D. Van Amburg, author of the "Buck Up Book," which has done so much to encourage and discourage people, and editor of "The Silent Partner," dedicated to the same purpose. For a dozen years or more, Mr. Van Amburg has devoted his life to this work, with flattering results. His office is at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York, where the little magazine may be had at the rate of a dollar and a half a year.

The first smile which lights up the baby's face is greeted by the mother with joy, and she encourages the baby to smile until smiling becomes a habit. This habit is so universal that "the faces of smiling children" is proverbial—wherever children are found in normal condition. The child never takes life very seriously and so the smile shines through the tears as soon as escape is made from the chiding of the father or the punishing of the mother. The same care-free spirit turns away from the open grave, when death invades the home. The child is never a very satisfactory mourner and sometimes shocks the family with seeming indifference.

Some years ago an indulgent father was suddenly removed from the home by death. The little group of children, ranging in age from eight to twelve years, looked into the kindly, silent face with eyes brimming with tears, and turned away, grief-stricken, little realizing the great loss that had come to them, but when the circus band commenced to play, down on the street for the afternoon performance, smiles took the place of tears and the mother found it difficult to keep them away from the big tent with its attractions.

"Heartless," you say. Not at all. The good Lord, who planned the journey of life, had a wonderful appreciation of the care-free period of childhood. He knew that the pathway would be rough and rugged, and that mourners going about the street would be encountered at every turn of the road, but smiling children would not be a part of the procession.

Child life adapts itself to new environments and changed conditions so readily, that loneliness and home-sickness are seldom experienced. The smile wins its way on the playground, and in the school room filled with unfamiliar faces. Child life is cosmopolitan. Under normal development, it knows nothing about class or class distinction, about wealth or poverty. "The days of real sport" are shared by all corners.

Child life takes things as they come and is never very much surprised over anything that happens. Show a boy an airplane for the first time, and you are disgusted over his lack of enthusiasm. He is more likely to criticize than commend by telling you that the machine which he and Bill Jones are making, out in the barn, will beat the one under inspection to a frazzle.

When the American army of occupation crossed the Rhine, one Sunday morning, not long ago, and stood for the first time on German soil, so free from devastation, or any signs of war, the boys in khaki were curious to know what sort of a reception would be accorded. Little knots of women looked askance, as they passed down the street, while the few men they met turned away, with averted gaze, but the children, coming out from corners, and climbing down from fences, soon discovered that our boys were no longer enemies, and so with smiling faces they approached the column and soon a little German hand was clasped in the hand of an American soldier, as they trudged down the dusty road. That's childhood, free from hate, meeting life with a smile and getting out of it the most it has to offer.

The question of when a child ceases to be a child and arrives at the age of accountability, is as much discussed as that other problem, "When does a child cease to be a child of God and become a child of the devil?" It would be better for many of us had we carried into mature life the smile and much of the innocence of childhood. It also might have helped us to give the devil a merry chase.

But the thought suggested by the topic has to do with life, not in the making, but in the years which follow, when the fight is on. It is said that the two most lonesome places on earth, are the vast prairie with no habitation in sight, and the crowded city with its multitude of strange faces. Of the two the latter is the worst. Walk down one of these crowded thoroughfares for a mile, looking in vain for a familiar face, and you are surprised to note that no two faces look alike, yet if observing you discover that a smile affects all kinds of faces in about the same way. Your heart warms to the man with a smile, while you turn away from the man with a frown.

We are living in an age when ability is capitalized as never before. Money is so abundant and so helpless in itself that men who possess it in large amounts are constantly looking for men who have the ability to handle it successfully for them. That is why there are so many high salaried positions today where the income is larger, without financial responsibility, than the average retail merchant enjoys, when in business for himself.

The ability to make money with money is only one of the many channels open to people who are ambitious to better their conditions in life. Every industry and every calling is looking for people who stop trying to do things and go out and do them. The "doers" and not the "tryers" are in demand.

This is where organized labor makes its first great mistake. It justifies ambition by basing its wage scales on the mediocre workman. Intelligent men will finally see the injustice of this ruling, when labor will come into its own, and the strife between capital and labor will cease.

We all admire the man behind the ticket window in the crowded railroad office, answering all sorts of fool questions in pleasant voice and with a smile on his face. His ability to do this means more than temperament. He has cultivated it as an asset and soon discovers that he is in the line of promotion. Courtesy and smiles have a money value which is not always appreciated.

There are some other callings where the graces of character may be capitalized to advantage. The school room, presided over by a pleasant-faced teacher, noted for patience, tact, and love of children, is always a model school room. These qualities of heart, which mean so much to the successful imparting of knowledge, are not recognized as important by examining boards, and so the applicant meets every requirement if the mental equipment stands the test. That is why so many school rooms are distasteful to so many children, and why compulsory educational laws are necessary. Make the school room attractive and watch results. For an object lesson close at home, visit the Industrial school and have a talk with the superintendent, Mr. West, the man who is doing so much to make men and women out of wayward boys and girls.

It is said that the home and the church go hand in hand in the development of child life. Some churches, realizing that so many homes are only homes in name, assume the responsibility for the moral training of the child, and the notion is growing in popularity that the doors of all churches should be easy of access to children everywhere. This is as it should be, for while, to many of us, the home is the most sacred spot on earth, the church remains after the home is broken up, and where these two helpful influences have worked in harmony, our mothers' church assumes the sacredness of the home. The church which wins, in the future, must be an attractive church where child life will receive every consideration.

Some good people are constantly praying to be delivered from temptation. This is a false conception of life. If their prayer was answered, they would be flabby specimens of humanity. Strength, whether of body or mind, comes through exercise and resistance. This is one of nature's laws, as old as time, and so the sturdy tree stands out by itself and defies wind and storm while the roots find anchorage in the crevices far below the surface. Character develops through the same sturdy resistance, and in no other way. Meet the temptations and troubles of life with a smile and they will disappear like dew in the morning sun.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, March 1, 1919.—Col. Burdick and J. W. Nash, Esq., returned last evening from their eastern trip. They had a very enjoyable time, and saw many things of interest. They are "loud in their praise" of the kindly manner in which Congressman Williams treated them in Washington and by his courtesy they were favored with an opportunity of meeting face to face the President and Cabinet members.

Rev. Mr. Sawin has so far recovered as to be able to ride this afternoon. He will not officiate tomorrow, although he may be present at the morning service. Rev. W. J. Brown of Beloit will conduct communion service in the morning.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

HE WORRIED.

He was one of the worrying kind—Born with, I fancy, a worrying mind; Worried whenever it threatened to rain. Worried whenever the sun came again Because he was sure when the sun shone was over.

He'd wake up to find it was raining once more. He had a worrying look in his eye And a worrying smile and a worrying sigh.

Never was he in too much of a hurry To think of his troubles and sit down and worry.

The children, they worried him sorely, indeed; He couldn't afford to supply every need; It gave him a horrible fit of the blues To look at the holes in their stockings and shoes.

But all of the worrying this fellow did Never purchased new shoes for the feet of a kid. They struggled along and they got on without.

The garments he fretted and worried about. And none of his worrying, early and late, Ever put any pie on a little girl's plate.

He worried because he was falling behind. Good jobs were scarcer and harder to find; Worried himself so he scarcely could sleep. Because he'd a job he perhaps couldn't keep.

The longer he worried, the worse matters grew. Each worry seemed to be followed by two. Mountains of trouble loomed up in his way. Bills kept on growing that he couldn't pay.

Got in a corner and couldn't get out. Blocked by the things that he worried about.

Don't be a man of the worrying kind. Don't be a slave to a worrying mind. When you're in trouble (and none lives without it), Don't sit and worry. Do something about it!

Get out and hustle and keep in the race. Battle your cares with a grin on your face. Worrying has never paid up a bill. Or lifted a mortgage, and it never will.

Life and its joys travel by, in a hurry. The chap who does nothing but stand still and worry.

Little May Thomas is celebrating her tenth birthday by a walk in Janesville this morning with the intention of walking 15 miles in 20 hours. The first 15 miles she walked in two hours and forty minutes, and will finish by 7 o'clock, when she will rest till 8 o'clock, and then finish the remaining 15 miles in 3 hours or less. The task is a hard one for an adult, and much more so for a little child. There were but few who dropped in to see her walk today, but there will probably be more in the evening.

ROY K. MOULTON

It is difficult to spend an evening in the presence of the darling of the town. Mrs. Fiske, without going home all excited and writing something about it. Mrs. Fiske has for 10 these many years, cast a spell over the humble scrivener, and this week when we saw her for the hundredth time, the spell was as potent as ever.

And, after the performance, the old-time reception, with scores of good-looking young men in evening clothes stooping to kiss the hand of the actress, and scores of beautifully gowned women paying her homage, we wondered what greater triumph any person could ask than the ever young and delightful Minnie Maddern has achieved in the hearts of her admirers. As Mrs. Fiske says of herself, she will never stop being young. She may die sometime, but she will never stop being young.

CITY DISPENSARY IS ASSURED; PLANS ARE BEING RUSHED

That Janesville is to have a public health dispensary in the near future was determined at an enthusiastic meeting of men and women, held last evening in the library. The project was started by the Rotary club and the City Federation of Women, both of whom are represented in the affairs by committees, who are empowered to go on and make necessary arrangements for the starting of the dispensary.

Some location will be secured, a staff of officers chosen from the medical profession, and plans made for the regular day clinic. Small fees will be charged which will help to make the plan self supporting. Also there is a sum of money available from the tuberculosis fund, which is still in the hands of the local chairman, Father Willmann. Also the state has an appropriation for fighting venereal diseases, which will pay the cost of the medicines and attendance needed for those cases.

Last evening both Dr. C. F. Thompson, Madison, who is working in connection with the state board of health and Theodore E. Barker, field secretary of the anti-tuberculosis society, were present and gave information along their different lines of work. Dr. Thompson, who is a captain in the medical corps of the army, gave a talk in which he stated frankly, the great prevalence of venereal diseases in our community, and the great need of combating the diseases in the interest of public health. He stated that there were probably 500 cases of these diseases in this city, and that he had reached a point where he was in a public clinic, which treated all kinds of ailments. He pointed out the aid which the state was prepared to give, if a dispensary or clinic was organized.

The state officials have arranged a large educational program which includes placards, leaflets, pamphlets, lectures, films and other materials. He showed that syphilis was one of the four or five largest causes of death, and that but little had been done to combat the scourge, and as it was very contagious it was a great menace to public health. It had been found that it ranked with tuberculosis, cancer and pneumonia, in its danger to the community. The plan of a dispensary in detail, and showed how it was vitally needed by the working people who were earning a moderate wage. He also pointed out the medical profession need not fear the loss of practice, as the people who would patronize the clinic would not be able to pay regular fees. He stated that the loss of wages by illness was quite an item to working people, who did not secure the medical care they needed in time to ward off serious disease, and often times contagious epidemics were started which might have been headed off if the incipient cases were noted in the first place.

COURT HAS FULL BOOK FOR MARCH TERM

Among the more important civil actions to be tried in circuit court before Judge Graham during the regular March term is the case of the Gund-Graham Co. vs. Janesville Traction Co. and City of Janesville. The case is a suit for recovery of payment for paving work done between the car tracks and on both sides on South Main street in 1917. No contest was filed by the city, and the case will appear for trial before Judge Graham on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The civil actions to be tried by jury are as follows: J. L. Richardson vs. J. R. Cullen Co.; John E. Fox Hospital Co. vs. City of Beloit; Paul Siebert vs. J. Arthur Granger; Joseph D. Conant vs. Hattie L. Conant; W. E. Thompson vs. George S. White; Fred Smith vs. Robert E. Doughterty; Anna Kikka vs. Gregor Kikka; Wm. E. Siawson vs. Emma Goldsmith; Alexander Woolen Co. vs. S. The fire was extinguished without damage. Last night a chimney fire was reported at the home of George Cullen, 344 South Main street. The loss was reported by Chief Murphy as nominal.

TAX ADVISOR ANSWERS PERPLEXING PROBLEMS

Hundreds of local people are daily receiving help from the local lawyers, bankers and at the federal income tax advisory office. Bankers and lawyers are busy the entire day, assisting people filing out their income blanks.

P. F. Emert, who is in charge of the advisory office at the post office, stated this morning that over 60 people daily called at his office for advice. Out of this number forty made out their reports. Mr. Emert has been here until Wednesday of next week and all who needed assistance are asked to call by then.

Some of the questions to be made out are: "State interest on corporation bonds containing tax fee in the city and state of Wisconsin, including such interest received through fiduciaries" is likely to cause most laymen some trouble. The above is typical of the questions to be answered.

Mr. Emmet stated that several people from the country had taken advantage of the office. One man, being skeptical in answering, often in no cases was trouble experienced.

The income from business or profession must be recorded, along with the income from salaries, wages, commission, bonuses, director fees and pension. Corporation income, partnerships, estates and trusts, profit from real estate, land, building, stocks, bonds and other property are also taken in under the income tax.

PIGS ARRIVE FAST FOR CLUB PRIZES

Fifteen pure bred Duroc pigs and ten Poland China pure breeds are now ready for the pig club as a result of several more purchases by the club. The pigs were purchased by the club yesterday afternoon. He has as yet bought no Chester White pigs but may secure a few early next week.

With 48 applications for membership in the pig club on hand today, the closing day of the campaign for contestants, the success of the club seems assured. Several more applications which have been delayed by the members to arrive Monday are expected to boost the membership to over 50.

Mr. Acheson will meet with members of the pig club committee Tuesday or Wednesday to make plans for the coming season. The list of contestants will be announced at that time.

TRI-COUNTY MEETING OF FARMERS CLOSES; PROF. REED SPEAKS

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Whitewater, March 1.—The care and selection of pullets in increasing egg production was the subject of a talk by Prof. Duffan Reed, Madison, at the closing session Friday afternoon, of the Tri-county farmers two days' meeting, which convened here Thursday morning. Farmers and their wives of Jefferson, Rock and Walworth counties were in attendance.

The early hatch pullet question which ones will you get rid of, he asked. "First the sick ones. Of the healthy ones get rid of the undersized. Keep a standard size for the breed. Third, select to keep the hens early to rise and late to bed. The hens, round over, call out the long heads because they can't handle food, besides they like the crow, and lay in the spring. The head must be feminine, the comb must be fine, large and showing she is going to do more than just make a living. The body must be round, not slat sided.

Keep Brood Backed Pullets.
The hen must have capacity for food all at the back, so that it is fairly round to give a chance for eggs to develop. The hen with the dull comb is the one that is doing the best. Hens should molt in September. Breed only from the good ones. The hen transmit her laying qualities through the son to the grand-daughter. When you have a hen find out whether the mother laid 150 eggs a year.

Crack the corn you feed hens. It makes them work harder to get the corn out of the husk, and it gives them plenty of exercise. Everything you do to make your hens comfortable will increase egg production.

Oldham Talks on Beans.
County Agent J. L. Oldham, Elk-horn, Minn., gave his experience with Soy Beans.

"Be sure and inoculate, otherwise the beans will take just as much out of the soil as any plant," he said. "Inoculated the bacteria will be able to get much of the nitrogen from the air. The soy bean is good feed and will save expensive feeds."

Prof. Morrison Speaks.
Prof. F. B. Morrison spoke on the subject, "Self Feeders and Cheap Grains."

"In producing cheap pork there are three things to consider," he said. "First, stock; second, take right kind of care of them; third, feed balanced rations. The chief use of the self-feeder is fattening growing pigs. The other use is to make a pig grow, the more money you make."

The last number on the program was the subject, "Overcoming Grain Diseases," by A. J. Garke and L. L. Oldham.

LAWRENCE GRIFFIN, WOUNDED, BACK HOME

Mess Sergeant Lawrence Griffin, a former member of Company M, who gave up his non-com berth and ran away from a bomb proof job to get in the line with his comrades, returned home last evening to spend a furlough with his family.

Sergeant Griffin left this city with Company M, and upon his arrival at Camp MacArthur he was transferred to the machine gun company of the 128th Infantry. Later he was made mess sergeant and upon his arrival of the regiment in France he was assigned to the machine gun company.

For days he heard the rattle of guns and the crack of the cannons but he was safe and contented. When the battle of Chateau Thierry broke out, Sergeant Griffin determined to get in the line and he located his old company and ran away to join them.

When he arrived at their headquarters he found the commander that he had run away to get in the line and instead of being disciplined he was cordially greeted and assigned to the machine gun company. Chateau Thierry that Sergeant Griffin was wounded in the back and right arm by machine gun bullets.

He was invalided home and arrived at Camp Grant a short time ago. Yesterday he was granted a short furlough and arrived in Janesville last evening.

HALIK CONCERT IS HIGHLY PRAISED

A high grade concert of unusual merit was the verdict of the music critics who attended the concert given by Glen Halik, violinist, La Crosse, at the Methodist church, last evening. Mr. Halik pleased his audience, small though it was, with his mastery and charm on the violin.

He was attributed the praise of being one of the best violinists who has played here in a long time. The concert was accompanied on the piano by Miss Grace Murphy, Janesville. He was assisted on the program by Miss Esther Barker, Janesville, reader; and Miss Pearl Gaarder, Milton, singer.

The concert was sponsored by the Philathea Bible class of the M. E. church, for the benefit of the French war orphans. Mrs. George A. Jacob, teacher of the class was in charge of the concert.

SUPERVISORS TO MEET ON ROAD BOND ISSUE

Supervisors of Rock County will meet in special session at the court house Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock to vote on whether the proposed $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost of building the concrete trunk line highways shall be submitted to the vote of the people. Should the board act favorably on this question it means that voters will cast their ballots for or against the issue at the April election.

Much interest is being shown by citizens in the outcome of the meeting. Those who favor building substantial highways in a few years rather than by the piece-meal method which would take 25 years are working hard for the bond issue.

Seniors and All Stars May Play Wednesday

Efforts to arrange a game Wednesday between the All Stars basketball team and Edgerton on the local floor were made today by Physical Director W. P. Craig. The senior team may also play the Fairy apprentices of Beloit the same evening.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT 'Y'

A special program will be given at the Sunday afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow at 2 p. m. A population team from the University of Wisconsin will conduct the meeting. Clarence Falk, one of its members, will lead the singing. The other members are Goodwin Watson and Roy Sorenson. Glenn Halik, university violinist, who appeared in concert at the Methodist church last night, will play several selections.

HOUSING TO BE TOPIC AT MONDAY LUNCHEON

An open forum of discussion on the housing situation is expected to bring out a record attendance at the luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at the Grand hotel Monday.

Chairmen of three important committees will make reports. William McVicar, housing committee, will tell of the campaign work in detail, of the results accomplished. William Amernohl, pecuniary committee, and Emil Pautz, building code committee, will make reports of plans for the betterment of the city during the rapid development of the next five years.

THE COLONEL'S ADVENTURE.
A good dinner and the aroma of fifty-cent Flor de Knockouts were responsible for the dreamy state of the members of the Necks to Nature Club. They were interested in Polish situation.

"This upheaval in Poland is quite a serious thing," said Tom Letherstone, blowing up several smoky necklaces.

"I always admired the people of Poland. Their art is so real—so ancient—so—"

"Sparking of Poles," interrupted a voice.

"Right the first time—The interrupter was Colonel Harta Beaton.

"Haw-er! Speaking of Poles reminds me of my second excursion to the North Pole."

Everybody with one movement started to get up, but the Colonel got up himself, as if to go, so everybody sat down again.

"The Colonel sat down too, and resumed."

"When our good ship The Polar Bear reached within a mile of the Pole, the icebergs started bearing down upon us. Bah Jove, so we had to get out and travel over the icy fields by bear-sledge. Finally we reached the Pole."

"What do you think we found nailed upon it, gentlemen?"

"Why we found an advertisement. Nobody had the heart to guess. Recommending us to use the Iron Church. Jitter Chains. Haw! Imagine an auto skidding down an iceberg or—"

"Just at this instant someone yelled 'Fire!' which gave everybody a chance to get away."

But the Colonel waited for them to come back. He hadn't finished his story.

Six new names were voted in the membership. They are Mrs. Joan Sherer, Mrs. Schwegler, Mrs. Sage, Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Turk, and Mrs. J. Q. Timmons.

There is still some money due on the payment for the French orphans and it was voted to hold a rummage sale on April 1 to help pay for them. It was also voted to borrow $25 at the bank to finish paying for the Timmons' picture which was purchased last week, as the money will come in later 28 dues.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Would you ever believe that this very serious little fellow would grow up to have a smile that was worth thousands of dollars? Would you ever recognize in the picture of the meek little lad of four years old the man who seems so fearless and reckless before the camera? Indeed not, neither would we.

We have it from Doug's own private, special press agent that this is a real "honest-to-goodness" photo-graph of the inevitable Douglas Fairbanks himself taken at the tender age of four years. It is a copy made from a regular family album portrait which is prized very highly by Mr. Fairbanks' brother. The picture was taken in Denver, Col., where Doug was born. He says that he really can't remember much about the camera or the cameraman, but he knows he did not want to get all dressed up for the occasion. He has overcome his early aversion to the extent of posing for a camera as often as his old find suitable scenarios to film. His latest release is "Arizona" in which starred on the speaking stage.

Dorothy Phillips is critically ill with influenza, according to reports from Los Angeles. Alan Holubar, her husband, is recovering. Miss Phillips was seized while nursing him. Gloria Swanson is also a sufferer from the epidemic.

The engagement is announced of Helen Chadwick, well known screen actress, to Lieut. Wolman of the Lafayette flying corps. Miss Chadwick, at present, is appearing as leading woman for Douglas Fairbanks.

Thomas Meighan, who has won more than passing popularity as leading man for various stars, will be featured in a big production to be made by George Loane Tucker. His services have been loaned to Tucker by Famous Players-Lasky.

Marjorie Rambeau will make her next appearance on the screen under the direction of Charles Miller. The first will be made before Miss Rambeau sails for London, where she appears under the management of A. H. Woods in previous successes. Eight pictures are specified in the contract.

Charles Chaplin has postponed his proposed visit to England, following a conference with the directors of the First National Exhibitors' circuit. As a result, he has promised to be made work on the site before he is made for them under the existing contract.

Comes a report that Elio Hamilton is engaged to be married. Guess Lu-

Douglas Fairbanks. Rue is to be his choice. It is said that both admit the announcement and that the ceremony will be performed in the immediate future.

A NEW EXPERIENCE

Up in Port Henry Betty Blythe is learning how to drive a dog sled. She knows that the way to make them work is to yell. "Gee, haw, haw!" but in working before the camera she forgot which of the three words meant "stop" and so had a wild ride until the trainer came to her rescue.

EUGENICS COMEDY PRESENTED AT MYERS

It is a difficult and rather unusual matter for a playwright to explore such serious problems as eugenics for material for so irresponsible a type of entertainment as farce—and make a good job of it. Yet this is nearly accomplished in "The Very Idea" which played at Myers Theater last night.

There was nothing really offensive in any of the motives, situations or characters, but the subject was a mighty delicate one and in some cases came pretty near the edge, but it got over and would have gone much better had there been a larger audience on hand.

Frank Readick Jr., was especially good as the cheerful little nonentity Gilbert Goodhue, his adle raled pretty well. The balance of the characters were exceedingly cast and the junior part, Dorothy Green as acted by Baby Ruth was most appealing.

With its romance, its smiles and tears and thrills, this exceptional picture carries us back to the creation, thence to Noah and the Flood, to Moses, to the Crucifixion, to Columbus, to the Declaration of Independence, to Lincoln, and into the great world war and out into the sunshine of peace, with a better understanding and a closer brotherhood between all races and nationalities. "The Birth of a Race" comes in its original form in every respect, in no sense a number two or duplicate production, but in fact as seen in Chicago, at the Blackstone theatre and the famous playhouses in Michigan avenue, where many of the most elaborate and pretentious picture plays are seen.

Joseph Breit, composer of the music for "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," will personally come with this production along with his symphony orchestra of especially selected musicians. A photoplay and musical treat of exceptional worth.

The plot is refreshingly original, and shows what happens to a young girl whose only love—up to the opening of the story—is her smart raceabout, and her one mania speed. To be arrested and sent to jail for thirty days and then, under almost obsolete laws to be hired out for twenty cents a day would be enough adventure for any one girl, but fate has decreed more than that for this madcap young beauty. Cupid steps in and the racing car is sidetracked to give place to a mere man. The story moves with a rapidly which rivals the speed-mania of the young hero and Miss Allison shows that for breezy and invigorating humor and sympathetic romance she is in a class by herself.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

THE UNEXPECTED
A woman's unending wrath filled Janet. Only automobile curtains between her and a torrential storm; the car, miles from habitation, and she alone with Roy Nicoli. She remained quickly a previous occasion when she was alone with Roy Nicoli in his car. Her anger and vexation were overwhelmed by sudden fear. There was no other thing for Nicoli to do but stay with her in the car indefinitely. She would not have sent a dog out in that storm. Even the lights had gone dead.

It was not her helplessness in his hand at that moment that sent her heart down sickeningly. Any false move on his part would mean the end of everything between them. Nicoli even for the glorious vision, her new career opened for her would she continue the least relation with a man who could forget himself twice in the end of everything between them. Nicoli would be even more repugnant to her than Walt's account than on her own. Nothing, nothing, nothing, Janet kept telling herself passionately, should be added to increase Walt's burden or add a jot to his disagreement.

Nicoli took off his great fur coat and put it about her in spite of her protest.

"I'm afraid you'll have to wait some time," he said. "I don't intend you shall feel cold—or catch one! This is enough bad luck for one day!"

Even the thought of keeping on this kindness in the face of his determination seemed repugnant to Janet, smacking as it did of struggle suggestive of the situation she feared. They sat in silence for a few moments, Janet listening to the anger of the storm trying to batter its way into Nicoli's thinking concentratedly. Finally he rose and opened the door of the car a little.

"I don't see any way out of it, Janet," he said. "I hate to leave you alone in the dark, but I'll have to do it. I can't keep you here all night!"

He turned up the collar of his coat and backed out of the machine fully, as if he were afraid Janet would protest and change his mind.

"What are you going to do?"

"Get help," he said.

"You mustn't or at least take your coat!" She took off his great coat and reached it to him. He shook his head.

"Can't walk in it," he said. "A swimming suit would serve better." He reached down into a leather pocket and took something out. He hesitated, then put a revolver in her hand. "Got a revolver in your hand, for it. But it may make you easier alone."

He jumped out into the storm, fastened the door tightly and was gone.

Janet had plenty of time to get over her surprise and relief at Nicoli's behavior. It was not only that he did not do the wrong thing, but that he did the right thing with such a sure and delicate touch.

An hour later she heard voices and a light came from the car. A figure of a man came out, and she saw him up. He was as drenched as though he had fallen into a river.

"All right," he called out cheerfully. "Got a hot supper and drink of beer but hot coffee for you!"

They reached Philadelphia in time for Janet to put up at a hotel and change her clothes. Later she met Nicoli, who had got into evening clothes at his hotel. She heard him present an eloquent, forceful case for the magazine before the committee of women, which was to report to the congress, and saw the admiration that underlay their prompt and unanimous acceptance of his proposal.

Personality, intellect, a certain youthful vitality and buoyancy, confidence which inspires confidence and builds the success it expects—these radiated from Nicoli in great measure, the warmth and brightness of a great room of dynamo.

After the committee had adjourned, Nicoli took Janet back to her hotel in his machine.

"Now your stunt comes tomorrow," he said. "Good luck, but I know you don't need it. I'm going back to New York tonight. I'll give Walt a call on my phone to tell him you're all right!"

THE MEDICAL TERM FOR IT

When they cut us off the other day we were just explaining how all important diseases in this country are steadily decreasing, except those strictly personal diseases or degenerations which begin to manifest themselves preferentially at middle age, such as Bright's disease and heart muscle failure. These diseases, according to the Morbidity Statistics, U. S. Census Bureau, have been steadily increasing in the past sixteen years, so that they now cause more death in America than all other diseases.

The lay public has only the vaguest conceptions of these diseases, because the medical health agencies of the country have somehow given these strictly personal degenerations very little attention in educational work. The great child in the country, tuberculosis, is most likely to come to victims who live with out fresh air and sunlight and wholesome food and proper rest. Every body knows that pneumonia is an infectious disease, the germ of which is carried from person to person in the droplets of saliva or sputum given off in the form of spray in coughing, sneezing or talking. Probably no intelligent person who reads is today unaware that typhoid fever is due to eating or drinking something polluted, in some way with human fecal matter, and that the bacteria prophylactic administered to all soldiers, has stamped this scourge out of all great armies.

There is probably not a woman able to read words of one syllable who does not know that the chief cause of death in infancy in hot weather is cholera-poisoning (summer complaint, cholera infantum, gastro-enteritis) from bacterial changes in the infant's food due to warmth, and that cleanliness and suitable refrigeration of the milk are the best known life-saving measures in infancy.

All these facts are familiar to the public. But what does the public know about apoplexy and Bright's disease and heart muscle failure and cancer? Practically nothing. Indeed, the layman's notions of these personal degenerations are quite incorrect. For example, as so many letters coming to me from readers show, there are a great many people who actually imagine that a pain or lameness in the back suggests a kidney trouble, and the usual popular notion of heart disease is a sudden death without warning—a thing that probably never occurs at all.

Ignorance about self and the vital subject of personal hygiene accounts for the danger of being alive at forty. The medical term for the brain, heart, artery and kidney manifestations of the danger is cardio-vascular disease (heart-vascular disease). It is a disease that exists, as a rule, for several years before the victim even begins to suspect there is anything really the matter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Age of Knowledge
I am twenty-two years old, old enough, you'll think, to know better than to ask such foolish questions. My parents never gave me any advice, yet he seems to be well and a useful member of the family.

ANSWER—Our great hospitals are groaning under the burden of caring for those who feel too young to learn the greatest truths. Parents have played the ostrich always. As you describe the young man, and provided your statement are not founded on imagination or hearsay, he is physically and normally unfit to marry.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman, thirty-five years of age, and have seven bright and good-looking children. My husband at one time was a very hard drinker and gambler and had a very bad temper. He was a living hell for some time now he has got down to real business. He stopped drinking and gambling and went to work and brought his home to me and stayed at home every night.

But the saddest part is now happening. Some weeks ago he was laid off from his business and in consequence of business and it seems to be making him cross with me and the children at home. He looks downcast all the time and will hardly talk with me except to find fault with me and everyone else.

The other day I suggested that I ought to do some kind of work to help out and he got very angry with me and told me to get a divorce from him—that he was not worthy of me. He said that both of us were still young and that some day I may get the kind of a home he was trying to give me.

Do you think my husband has lost his love for me? Should I do some kind of work? What should I say to keep his mind off his present situation?

DISCOURAGED.

Your husband has not lost his love for you. He has lost faith in himself. Tell him that you do not consider this last discouragement a test of his character and that he will not fail. Encourage him to work no matter what he has to do. Business will surely pick up in a few months because of export trade. If he bridges over the period of depression with work which is not worthy of his ability he may be able to get something better later. Work no matter what kind, will keep his mind off himself and prevent him from getting into the bad habits which idleness causes.

Do not work unless you can not manage otherwise. Let him know that you have faith in his ability to take care of his family.

Keep him busy. If he does not work away from home, see that he is busy around the house.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sixteen years old and have been going with a boy for almost a year, and I love him very much.

The other day he said he was going to smoke a pipe, which I asked him not to do, but he smoked the pipe anyway. I do not think he loves me or he would not have smoked the pipe.

Please advise me what to do about going with him anymore.

BROWN EYES.

The boy should not have smoked when you asked him not to. It seems to me that he is rather a bad habit. Probably he thinks smoking is "smart," and if he does he will go further and consider other bad habits "smart."

Think you should drop him if he continues to disregard your request. At your age you should be very careful not to go with a young man who is gaining for himself a reputation of being "fast."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl of fourteen. I have a very good boy friend who has asked me to go with him and my folks think I am too young and I do too. But I want to keep his friendship and he said he wouldn't be a good friend if I would not go with him. H. L. J.

The boy's heart does not seem to go with him even if you do have to give up his friendship.

Household Hints

MENU HINT.
Breakfast. Sliced Oranges. Oatmeal. Scrambled Eggs and Bacon. Bran Flakes. Coffee.
Luncheon. Lima Beans Purée. Croustons. Home Canned Apples. Tea.
Dinner. Ham and Potatoes Baked in Milk. Home Canned Wax Beans with Butter Sauce. Icesberg Lettuce with Piquant Dressing.
Finger Rolls. Butter. Orange Pudding. Coffee.
GOOD SWEETS.
Sca Beans—Two cups brown sugar, three cups cold water, whites of two eggs, one cup meat.
Put the sugar and water into saucepan; stir until dissolved; put on fire and boil until it forms a ball when dropped in cold water. While it is boiling beat the whites of eggs until dry; then add the sugar very slowly, beating all the time. The chopped nut meats can be added, or the nuts can be placed on the outside. With teaspoon drop the foam on wax paper, or they be made into balls and dipped in melted chocolate or rolled in chopped cocoanuts.

Brown Sugar Candy—Two cups brown sugar, three quarter cup milk, one tablespoon butter, one cup chopped citron, figs, lemon and orange peel, one teaspoon nut meats.

Put the sugar and milk into saucepan, stir until sugar is dissolved, then put over fire, add butter, boil slowly until it forms a ball when dropped in cold water; remove from fire, add fruits and nuts, stir hard until it is thick, pour on buttered pan. When cold cut in squares.

Helene's Candy—Three cups of sugar, one tablespoon (heaping) of cocoa, one teaspoon of salt, enough water to stir ingredients together good; stir on stove until it boils—just enough to make a very soft ball in cold water. Then remove from stove to some cold place without stirring until cold, then beat until creamy, which will be quite a while.

Put the candy in a tin, never set, but it will be delicious and creamy.

Disappearing Candy—An inexpensive and wholesome candy may be quickly made by placing a cup of white sugar in a frying pan, place over a moderate heat and slowly melt the sugar, stirring constantly. When all the sugar has turned to a clear brown syrup add one cup of peanuts, a puff of wheat or popcorn and turn quickly out on an oiled pan. As it cools cut into any desired shape. The long, narrow strips are attractive and easily handled.

TESTED RECIPES.
Lima Bean Purée—Soak half pound dry lima beans over night. Parboil in three cups cold water. Blanch. Cook slowly to a mash, with slice onion and two bay leaves. Strain through with milk. Thin to desired consistency with milk. Salt to taste, add one cup of black pepper, dash of paprika, four drops tobacco sauce, teaspoon sugar. Serve very hot.

Orange Pudding—Soak two heaping teaspoons gelatin in one-third cup cold water for five minutes. Add one cup orange pulp and juice, juice of one-half lemon, one-half cup sugar. Beat well. When it begins to thicken, add one cup of cream. Serve while after molding in large mold. Garnish with cherries or green leaves from any plant.

Skirt and Blouse For Sports Wear

BY ELOISE.

So far the bell that rings the doom of sports clothes has not been sounded in the ears of the large majority of women and by the looks of the promenaders on the board walk this season and the shops windows and the living but not heard for some time. There are those fashion dictators, however, who claim that sport clothes have attained their zenith and have gone as far as they will go. There are those who claim that sport clothes are youthful and whatever is youthful is here to stay. This skirt and blouse pictured are two good ones. They are made of a light material, trimmed with white satin bands and covered buttons of the type of garment. The skirt is white kumma cloth, which is a new sport material which looks like a satin. Trimmed with white satin bands and covered buttons of the type of garment. The skirt is white kumma cloth, which is a new sport material which looks like a satin. ## Tales of the Friendly Forest

Now let me see. In the last story Uncle Lucky was singing at the piano when he had to finish, and he had to write a letter to Uncle Sam telling him to send on a carload of Thrift Stamps.

"I guess we can sell them, all right," said the old gentleman rabbit. "We'll ask every bunny in Rabbitville to buy one, and I'll get my cousin, Mr. Jack Hare, at Bunnybridge to sell all he can in his carload. And sure enough, he had, now on we'll be well provided with the Luckymobile with as many as it could carry and started back for the bank. For Uncle Lucky was president of the Rabbitville Bank, a member and president, too, of the Welsh Rabbit Club.

And after three trips and a half they had all the stamps unloaded from the big freight car and stored away in the bank.

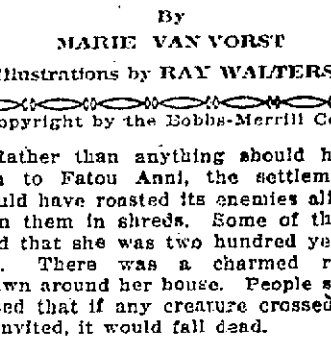

Now we'll take half a million stamps over to Bunnybridge and start a big campaign there, said Mr. President Lucky, and off they went. Mr. Jack Hare and Billy Bunny, and by and by on their way they met the old stage coach. And as soon as the old driver saw them he pulled in his team of billy goats.

"Save your pennies every day. And put a Savings Stamp away. For every time you buy a stamp you give the enemy a cramp. And if he gets the cramps too much. Ho ho hurray! and hip hurray! Please buy a Savings Stamp each day."

And after that the two little rabbits drove off toward Bunnybridge, and in the next story I'll tell you what they did when they got there.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST
Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Rather than anything should happen to Fatou Anni, the settlement would have roasted its enemies alive, torn them in shreds. Some of them said that she was two hundred years old. There was a charmed ring drawn around her house. People supposed that if any creature crossed it uninvited, it would fall dead.

The sun had risen for an hour and the air was still cool. Overhead, the sky, unstained by a single cloud, was blue as a turquoise floor, and against it, black and portentous, flew the vultures. Here and there the sun-touched pools gave life and reason to the oasis.

Fatou Anni perched her corn. Her barbaric chant was interrupted by a sharp bark and a low pleading whine. She had never heard sounds just like that. The dogs of the village were great wolflike creatures. Pitcheoune's bark was angelic compared with theirs. He crossed the charmed circle drawn around her house, and did not fall dead, and stood before her, whining. Fatou Anni left her corn, stooped upright and looked at Pitcheoune. To her the Irish terrier was not a dog. The fact that he had not fallen dead proved that he was beloved of Allah. He was, perhaps, a gentle, an arif.

Pitcheoune fawned at her feet. She murmured a line of the Koran. It did not seem to affect his demonstrative affection. The woman bent down to him after making a pass against the Evil Eye, and touched him, and Pitcheoune licked her hand.

Fatou Anni screamed, dropped him, went into the house and made her ablutions. When she came out Pitcheoune sat patiently before the parched corn, and he again came crawling to her.

The Arabian woman lived in the last hut of the village. She could satisfy her curiosity without shocking her neighbors. She bent down to scrutinize Pitcheoune's collar. There was a sacred medal on it with sacred inscriptions which she could not read. But as soon as she had freed him from the collar, Pitcheoune tore himself away from her, flew out of the sacred ring and disappeared. The he ran back, barking appealingly; he took the hem of her dress in his mouth and pulled her. He repeatedly did this and the superstitious Arabian believed herself to be called divinely. She cautiously left the doorstep, her veil falling before her face, came out of the sacred ring, followed to the edge of the berry field. From there Pitcheoune sped over the desert, when he stopped and looked back at her. Fatou Anni did not follow, and he returned to renew his entreaties. When she tried to touch him he escaped, keeping at a safe distance. The village began to stir. Blue and yellow garments fluttered in the streets.

"Allah Akbar," Fatou Anni murmured, "these are days of victory, of recompense."

She gathered her robe around her and, stately and impressively, started toward the huts of her grandsons. When she returned, eight young warriors, fully armed, accompanied her. Pitcheoune sat beside the parched corn, watching the brazier and her meal. Fatou Anni pointed to the desert.

She said to the young men, "Go with this gentle. There is something he wishes to show us. Allah is great. Go."

When the Capitaine de Sabron opened his eyes in consciousness, he encountered a square of blazing blue heaven. He weakly put up his hand to shade his sight, and a cotton awning, supported by four bamboo poles, was swiftly raised over his head. He saw objects and took cognizance of them. On the floor in the low doorway of a mud hut sat three little naked children covered with flies and dirt. He was the guest of Fatou Anni. These were three of her hundred great-grandchildren. The babies were playing with a little dog. Sabron knew the dog but could not articulate his name. By his side sat the woman to whom he owed his life. He fell over her face. She was braiding straw. He looked at her intelligently. She brought him a drink of cool water in an earthen vessel, with the drops cooing; from its porous sides. The hut leaked with odors which met his nostrils at every breath he drew. He asked in Arabic: "Where am I?"

"In the hut of victory," said Fatou Anni.

Pitcheoune overheard the voice and came to Sabron's side. His master murmured: "Where are we, my friend?"

The dog leaped on his bed and licked his face. Fatou Anni, with a whisk of straw, swept the flies from him. A great weakness spread its wings above him and he fell asleep.

Days are all alike to those who lie in mortal sickness. The hours are intensely colorless and they slip and slip into painful wakefulness, into fever, into drowsiness finally, and then into weakness.

The Capitaine de Sabron, although he had no family to speak of, did possess, unknown to the Marquise d'Esclignac, an old aunt in the provinces, and a handful of heartless cousins who were indifferent to him! Nevertheless he clung to life and in the hut of Fatou Anni fought for existence. Every time that he was conscious he struggled anew to hold to the thread of life. Whenever he grasped the thread he vanquished, and whenever he lost it, he went down, down.

Fatou Anni cherished him. He was a soldier who had fallen in the battle against her sons and grandsons. He was a man and a strong one, and she despised women. He was her prey and he was her reward and she cared

For him; as she did so, she became maternal.

His eyes which, when he was conscious, thanked her; his thin hands that moved on the rough blue robe thrown over him, the devotion of the dog—found a responsive chord in the great-grandmother's heart. Once he smiled at one of the naked, big-bellied great-grandchildren. Bent Hassan, three years old, came up to Sabron with his fingers in his mouth and chattered like a bird. This proved to Fatou Anni that Sabron had not the Evil Eye. No one but the children were admitted to the hut, but the sun and the flies and the cries of the village came in without permission, and now and then, when the winds arose, he could hear the stirring of the palm trees.

Sabron was reduced to skin and bone. His nourishment was insufficient, and the absence of all decent care was slowly taking him to death. It will never be known why he did not die.

Pitcheoune took to making long excursions. He would be absent for days, and in his clouded mind Sabron thought the dog was reconnoitering for him over the vast pink sea without there—which, if one could sail across as in a ship, one would sail to France, through the walls of mellow old Tarragon, to the chateau of good King Rene; one would sail as the moon sails, and through an open window one might hear the sound of a woman's voice singing. The song, ever illusive and tantalizing in its persistence, tantalized his sick ears.

Sabron did not know that he would have found the chateau shut, had he sailed there in the moon. It was as well that he did not know, for his wandering thought would not have known where to follow, and there was repose in thinking of the Chateau d'Esclignac.

It grew terribly hot. Fatou Anni, by his side, fanned him with a fan she had woven. The great-grandchildren on the floor in the mud fought together. They quarreled over bits of colored glass. Sabron's breath came panting. Without, he heard the cries of the warriors, the lance-bearers—he heard the cries of Fatou Anni's sons who were going out to battle. The French soldiers were in a distant part of the Sahara and Fatou Anni's grandchildren were going out to pillage and destroy. The old woman by his side cried out and beat her breast. Now and then she looked at him curiously, as if she saw death on his pale face. Now that all her sons and grandsons had gone, he was the only man left in the village, as even boys of sixteen had joined the raid. She wiped his forehead and gave him a potion that had been placed with arrows. It was all she could do for a captive.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole. Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Musterole usually prompts relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (if often prevents pneumonia). 30¢ and 60¢ jars; hospital size $2.50.

FREED FROM THE PHYSIC HABIT

"I had stomach trouble and constipation very bad for a long time. I could hardly eat anything and my bowels wouldn't move unless I took a physic every day. I had to support myself and two children, yet I was not able to work."

"The first bottle of Mils Emulsion did wonders for me, and I have continued its use until now I feel fine and can work every day. I have a good appetite, my stomach trouble has left me, and my bowels are as regular as clock work."—Mrs. Mary Aldner, 103 S. Court St., Sioux City, Iowa.

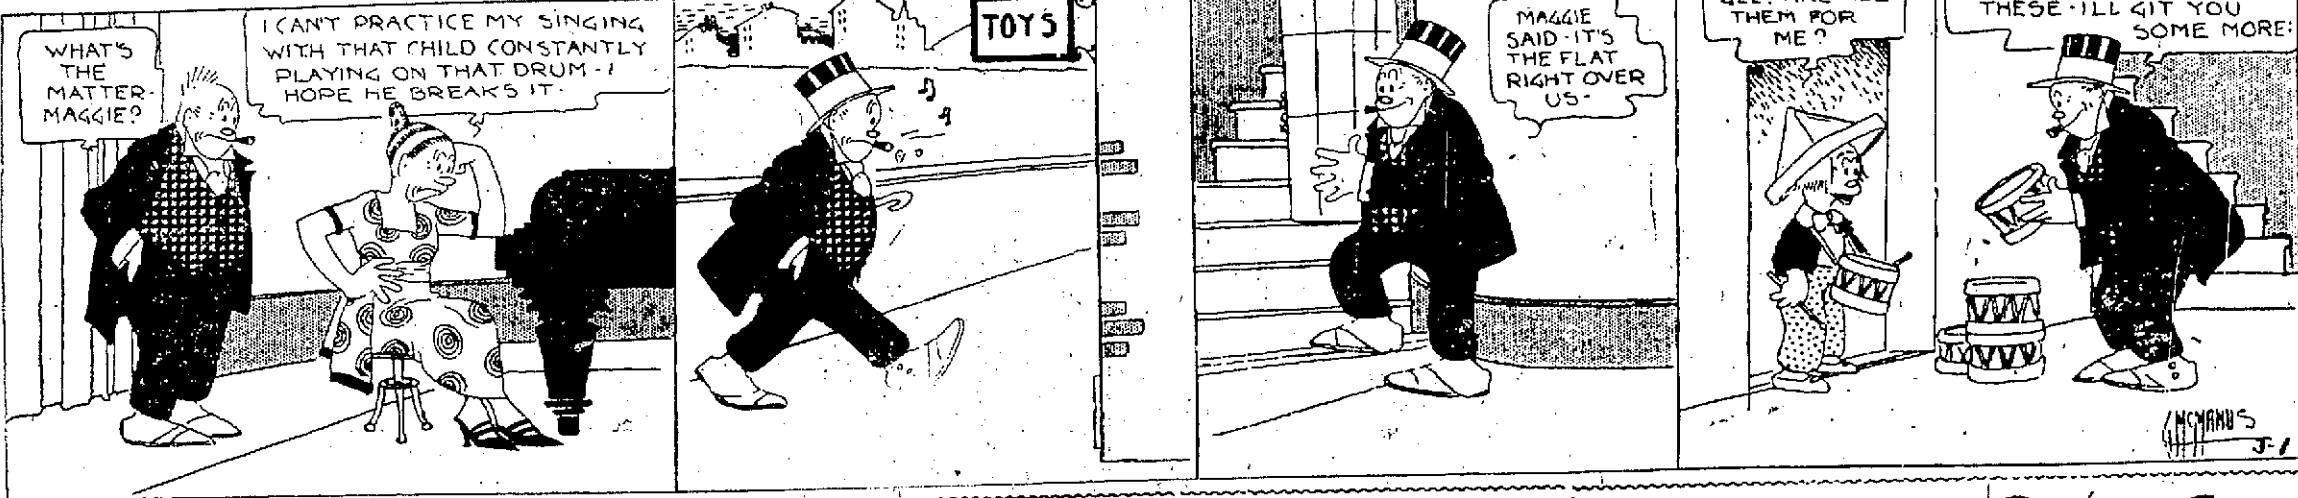

Mrs. Aldner found out what all sufferers should know—that Mils Emulsion is a perfectly natural food, and that it restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite, quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Mils Emulsion is strongly recommended for run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis, tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in a few days. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

Full medical facts and a list of testimonials with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60¢ and $1.20 per bottle. The Mils Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by J. R. Baker.

"An' what foah you gwine gib me $102 of good money foah $100 of good money?" replied the darky. "Man, travel on. 'Fob you all's arrested wid counterfeit money on you."

"My husband is so jealous."

"How absurd!"

"Why, isn't yours?"

"Of course not."

"How humiliating!"

A colored recruit said he intended to take out the full limit of government insurance, $10,000. On being told by a fellow soldier that he would be foolish to pay on so much when he was likely to be shot in the trenches, he replied: "Huh! I reckon I knows what I's doin'. You-all don't know Uncle Sam is gwine to put a $10,000 man in the first-line trenches, do you?"

"Speaking of etiquette, did you send the quarter for those advertised instructions on 'What to do at table'?"

"Yes."

"And what did you get?"

"A slip with one word printed on it: 'Eat!'"

SPORTS

CARDINALS WILL PLAY FAIRIES ON TUESDAY EVENING

Janesville is basketball crazy at the present time and basketball is being talked everywhere. According to the best information available over 400 fans, headed by the Bower City Band will journey to Beloit on a special train on the Northwestern Tuesday evening to witness the game between the Cardinals and the Beloit Fairies.

The local team have no excuse to make for losing the game last week with the exception that they were shy their star guard, Peterson, and were unable to find a man of his calibre to fill the position. As a result Dixon got away to a big start and caged 3 baskets in the first half.

When the Janesville team takes the floor at Beloit on Tuesday evening the same men that have been playing all season will be on hand with the exception of Peterson. Pete cannot play on Tuesday but he will be back in the line up in this city on Thursday.

After winning from the Lakotas on Wednesday the Beloit Fairies played the Olympic club of Madison on Thursday and were given a severe drubbing.

Captain Hemming is still scouting this section of the country for a few good players and he stated this morning that a rejuvenated team would face the Fairies in this city on next Thursday.

Lack of enthusiasm on the part of Janesville people has had a lot to do with the showing of the Cardinals. The team in past years has always played before crowded houses and this season the attendance has been exceedingly poor.

The team representing Janesville this year is as good as any team in the middle west and should be given the support of the people. The local quintet have only lost three games this season, and all of these defeats will be wiped out before the season closes.

They lost to the fast Camp Grant team in the opening game of the season when they had an inexperienced team. They also lost one game to the Olympic club and one to Beloit. They have a win over the Olympic club also and will wipe out the Beloit defeat on Tuesday.

Petitions asking for donations to engage the Bower City band for Thursday evening were circulated yesterday and the fans have responded splendidly. The band has been engaged and will make the trip and it is hoped that every local fan in Janesville will journey to Beloit and participate in the defeat that is going to be handed the Fairies.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL HAS "VARSITY" CHEER LEADERS

In Kurt Fuchs and Harry Place, Janesville high school has a couple of good, live cheerleaders who can outclass any in this section of the state. They should be in the White water tournament next week together with a big delegation of rooters. The high school has a small but unusually speedy five this year and with a little boosting should cop honors at the tourney.

This is Fuchs' last year in school, but young Place should make an able successor. Both men perform in realistic varsity style and their prancing over the floor makes for genuine pep.

JANESVILLE TAKES GAME FROM DELAVAN

Sprackling's eye for baskets and free throws won the game for Janesville High school last night over Delavan by a 33 to 17 score. The big boy scored seven baskets and dropped in five out of six free throws. He was easily the star. Rood was a close second and piled up five baskets.

Sprackling opened the scoring by dropping in a later with a pretty one from the side. Brooks then scored with a free throw and a basket, after Rood worked the ball down the floor and tapped one at the end of the first quarter the score was tied, five to five.

Rood opened the second quarter with a long one from the side, while Delavan's lucky forward, Brooks, was striving in vain to speed up his teammates. The teamwork of the Janesville crowd was especially good. The short passing style was used frequently and passing was especially good. Brooks made a spurt and shot in one of the prettiest throws of the evening. Sprackling and Nuzum then scored, ending the half 12 to 9 in Janesville's favor.

The second period saw the Delavan bunch holding slightly better than in the first. For five minutes neither team could score, but Brooks broke the ice by counting a free throw on Powers' foul. Rood aided by great teamwork, worked the ball down the floor and scored. Sprackling, Powers, then each made a basket.

Janesville's signals worked perfectly and Sprackling counted. Delavan shot one in from the side after which Rood finished the scoring of the game.

Brooks scored 15 of Delavan's 17 points. Switzer scored once in the second period. The Delavan team was heavier than the locals and have won seven out of nine games, so that the defeat last night was a galling one. They will enter the tournament at Whitewater next week and it is probable that Janesville will meet them.

EVANSVILLE DOUBLES SCORE ON BELOIT

(By a Staff Correspondent)

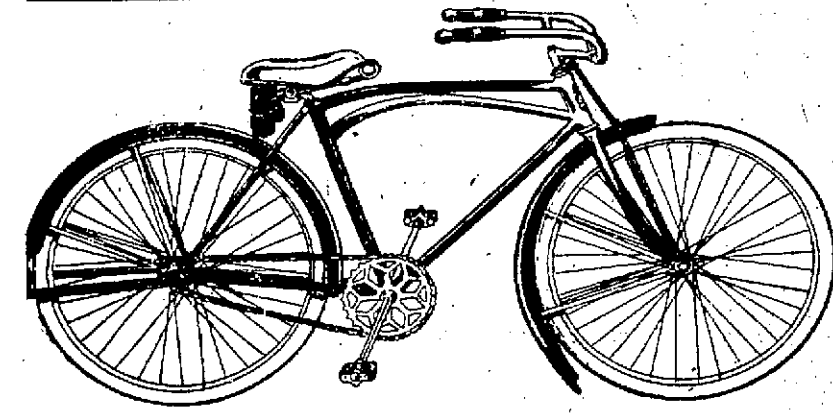

Evansville, March 1.—Evansville high school basketball team defeated the Beloit high aggregation at the Gateway City yesterday afternoon by the score of 18 to 9. The Cut-off City men had things practically their own way throughout the game, surprising Purple rooters by their speedy play.

The game was scheduled to be played today but owing to the inability of securing the use of the gym this afternoon it was staged yesterday.

The Evansville five will go through a strenuous three days of practice next week in preparation for the Whitewater tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, Feb. 28.—Alex. Cook, who recently received an honorable discharge, came up from Beloit and spent the day with friends here.

Miss Ruth Stephens, who is attending Janesville High school, was absent one day this week, having been sick with a hard cold.

Mrs. George Bush left Wednesday for Milwaukee to spend a week with relatives in that city.

James Ward is in town from Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Ward is the guest of his sister, Miss Mary, and is continuing after his recent illness.

Mr. Arnold, who has been singing at the meetings which are being held at the meetings Thursday for Kentucky, but will stop over one day with his family at Indianapolis. Mr. Bennett accompanied him as far as Chicago, returning in the evening.

Mrs. Ed. Palmer, Mrs. Roy Timm, and Miss Daisy Silverthorn are Janesville visitors today.

Mrs. Timm moved his family and household goods to the farm recently vacated by Mr. Ade, Thursday. Mr. Ade and family have moved to Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Ward came from Orfordville and were Thursday guests at the Will Honeysett home. Shortly after their arrival a message reached them saying that Mrs. Ward's brother, William Taylor, had been badly injured when his horses ran away. Consequently they returned the same evening to Orfordville, abandoning their plan of going to Evansville, Illinois to their home in Cameron.

Roy Timm has severed his connection with the condenser and will move his family to the Dell Townsend farm in Magnolia, Monday.

Mr. Hoover will move his family Monday to the tenant house on the K. J. Bemis farm and will work for Mr. Easton this coming summer.

Much tobacco is today being delivered at the F. D. Pepper warehouse. Miles Clark is in Janesville today.

Elders Bennett and Worley and family are spending the day at the John Fisher home in Center.

Mrs. Lizzie Silverthorn will spend the week-end with her son, Harry, and family, of Orfordville.

The following letter was received from Paul E. Mattice, France:

Requell, France, Feb. 5, 1919.

"Dear Mother and Father: Your letter of Jan. 12 reached me today. This is a small place about 25 kilometers south of Mons, a very beautiful place with its large church in the center of the town, the Curate wandering about in robes of black, giving advice and counsel to all his people, the children running about the streets with their wooden shoes, etc. A small child just passed my window carrying a high, round loaf of bread.

looks like a doughnut, only much larger.

All the officers in our company are billeted in an old chateau and are trying to get civilized again. The first time we sat down to dinner with real china, napkins, etc., we just looked at each other in wonderment. The people here are exceptionally fine to us. The old lady here at the house was much pleased this morning when I and the orderlies started cleaning the floors, etc. She said: "Men don't do such work in France; they leave everything for the women to do." Of course I told her that I always helped my mother at home. Nothing like having a good training.

"At the present time we are drilling, marching, playing football, etc. If the weather improves we are to have movies and real shows out of doors. We are endeavoring to amuse ourselves, until our turn comes for the home-coming, which I think is about the first of March. As I have told you, we go to Boston, then to Camp Devine, where we will be mustered out of the service.

"Was rather surprised to hear of the 84th division being home so soon. Was under the impression that some of the units were in the army of occupation. I suppose they are all glad to be back. None of us will cry when we leave here I am sure.

"On our way down here we had a terrible train wreck. Six men killed and 18 injured. The men were all from this company and in the majority of cases men who had been with the division during its entire tour of duty in France. I never had anything get on me as that sight did. In the trenches one must expect to see dead people in all manner of shapes, but when the war is all over and the boys on their way back home it was too much. Will tell you all about it when I get back home, which will be soon now. A month will soon pass away, and besides I am not anxious to run into zero weather at present, not when I have scarcely had my ears cold for two years. The rainy season has just begun.

"Am glad you are all well; certainly do not want any of you sick when I am so far away."

With much love.

PAUL.

This notable array of special authorities is augmented by a staff of War Trained Photographers, Foreign Representatives and writers of International Authority on Military and Naval Maneuvers, Geographical Conditions, Racial, Language and Religious complications, the Food Situation and every possible Phase of the Greatest War in History. Illustrated with a Rare and Elaborate collection of Photos, containing the Official Stamp of the American, French, British and Italian Governments—all combined into one book of 352 pages with 345 illustrations not including maps, etc., printed on ivory finish book paper, bound in cloth, size 8x10½ inches.

The Largest and Best Illustrated Book On the War's History

How America Turned the Tide

The most glorious epoch in American history is included in the period of this country's participation in the great struggle. It was a period wherein the United States bridged the sea with ships, landed in Europe a trained army of more than two millions, and at CHATEAU-THIERRY, turned the tide of battle which, in a few short weeks, ended in complete victory for the forces fighting for civilization. The book traces every movement and development, from the inception of the German plot to restoration and reconstruction period.

Most Colossal Conspiracy of All Time

The Spark in the Powder Magazine of Europe placed there by Germany and her blood thirsty militarists.

Germany Branded Murderer

The entire German Nation seared, withered, and blackened with murder.

Europe Consumed

Europe consumed in Flames, Twenty-eight Nations involved. The Rape of Belgium, the destruction of Roumania, Serbia, Montenegro, and the chaotic Revolution that almost destroyed Russia. The killed numbering ten million, the maiming of thirty million and the cost to the world of two hundred and fifty billion dollars.

Unspeakable Atrocities

All these flaming atrocities are thrillingly described in word and picture in this volume.

Colored Features

Featuring Twelve De Luxe Colorgravures of War Leaders and Intense Situations and other Views, also Maps of the Continents and the Individual Countries affected by the War with the Formation of New Nations.

Extract From the Author's Foreword

Entertaining visualization of the war is best attained through photographs. For this reason this book has been profusely illustrated and the hundreds of scenes photographed during the four years of campaigning on all the great fronts, in themselves tell the narrative in a convincing manner. These pictures were taken by the most skilled men attached to the fighting forces. Many of them since America got into the war, are the official output of the Bureau of Public Information in Washington. Others were taken by men who risked their lives for a "close-up." The events of the war have been brought down to the present day. No vital episode of the struggle has been overlooked. The narrative is complete from the demolition of Liege to the signing of the terms of the armistice and the abdication of the Kaiser. It is hoped that it will do full justice to the sacrifice, courage, steadfastness in the face of apparent defeat, of the tireless fighting men of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and the United States.

America Turns the Tide

When England with her back to the wall fighting magnificently and heroically a losing battle and France and Italy fast waning, the Americans answered the appeal of Humanity and sent her ships loaded with Food and Supplies and backed up her advance aid by two million Fighting Yanks. Read especially the battles of Cantigny and Chateau Thierry. From those glorious beginnings the Americans and their Allies turned back the blood thirsty Huns and fought on to the Glorious and Victorious end.

Lucy, Baby Elephant, Puts up Howl at Her Strange Surroundings in Evansville Home

Evansville, March 1.—Baby Elephant Lucy, like all babies might do, was appalled by the strangeness of her new home, and kept up a rampant howl Tuesday in her new quarters at the Campbell home here, belching squealing and pawing. But as the days go past she is becoming acclimated to her Evansville life and no doubt within a few weeks will be a staid and quiet resident.

Baby Lucy is the new acquisition which Mrs. Mabel Hall Campbell brought home from San Francisco, Tuesday night. She has not been long in this country, coming in a wild state to the dealer in Peisco from Thailand. "The cute little thing"—the old weather-worn baby admiration remark—hardly holds in this case. Baby Lucy only weighs 1,800 pounds, created. She, in company with some monkey came through from the west monkey to get all ready for the big fall circus this summer.

An elephant trainer from Baraboo came to take the animal's instruction in charge. When he entered the barn, he commenced talking to Miss Lucy, saying "Good morning." "How are you?" etc., until gradually he could get near enough to lay his hand

WALWORTH

The state librarian visited the Walworth high school Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Webster spent Tuesday in Janesville.

The Walworth high school enjoyed a dancing party in Odd Fellows hall Friday night.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

A MIS-SPELLED NAME.

The postman came to my neighbor's house one day recently when several of us were taking tea when he and as she brought the letters. "Which is the letter for me?" she asked. "One for our inspection. Her correspondent had spelled her name in a quite extraordinary way."

"Doesn't it make you crazy to have people spell your name wrongly?" said one of the other women. "People are always leaving the 'e' off my name and it makes me so cross."

"Well, I don't know," said my hostess, "as I mind especially. I think it amuses me to see what they will do with my name. It's rather an odd one, you know. Perhaps I've gotten used to mistakes because people make so many, and that is why I don't mind so much."

The Kind of Woman Who Wouldn't Mind.

Perhaps that was the reason, and yet I don't think so. I think she is the sort who wouldn't mind anyway. She is too busy with big things, too much occupied with vital interests, too tolerant and friendly to mind little things like that. And yet if one don't think you really can, but that is another part of my thesis which I will try to develop later there are very few people like her. The majority regard the use of a wrong initial as an insult, a wrong spelling of their names as an outrage, and the use of "Miss" when it should be "Mrs." or vice versa, as a tragedy.

Which is The Better Mistake?

This last mixup is one in which I am especially interested because I so often get letters from people whom I do not know, which are signed in such a way that it is impossible for me to tell whether the writer is Miss or Mrs.—when I answer I have to address the letter to one or the other. Shall I run less risk of offending? I used to assume that, as there is a feeling that women prefer the marriage state, it was wiser to call a woman "Mrs." and then if she were not, she would perhaps be pleased that I thought she was. But just the other day I heard a woman make strenuous objections because someone who had been hastily introduced to her got her name "Mrs." instead of "Miss." "I hate to be called 'Mrs.," she said with a toss of her head. "I could have been a Mrs. if I'd wanted to, but as long as I didn't care to be, I don't want to be called one."

Mr. Just like to talk.

To return to the thesis I was going to develop later. After all, it doesn't need much development, for it's only a guess, and that is that these things don't really trouble us as much as we think they do. We just get into the habit of saying they do for the sake of saying something.

Let Us Help You Plan Your Home

Nothing gives a family more self-respect than owning its own home. Nothing else contributes so much towards the standing of a family in the community. It costs no more to build an attractive house than an unattractive one. It's all a matter of design—a matter of putting a little effort into planning the house. And design adds to the sale value of a house. We can help you plan your house so that it will meet your needs. Our booklet "White Pine in Home-Building" has valuable suggestions both on attractive designs in wood houses and on floor plans. Come in or send for it. For the outside of a house White Pine is still the best wood on the market. Even after years of exposure to the weather it does not warp or twist or rot. It always stays where you put it. That is why it has always been the favorite wood with architects.

Home of Character---No. 236

An Inexpensive Cottage Bungalow

This is an attractive cottage of the bungalow type. The living room, dining room and front bedroom are unusually large for a house of its size, and the kitchen arrangement is good.

The columned opening between living room and dining room and open stairway are attractive features. The dining room bay may be placed at the side or rear, and the vestibule can be omitted. For an inexpensive interior finish we recommend Georgia pine, stained and varnished, with rift sawn yellow pine floors. At a small increase in cost the living and dining rooms could be finished in natural finish oak with oak floors and the second floor in white enamel on poplar or birch, with mahogany finish birch doors. The basement has cement floor and contains hot air furnace, laundry trays, hot water heater, coal bin and fruit closet. Vitreous china or enameled iron bathroom fixtures would be suitable.

The sketches shown in this space may prove helpful to you in planning the home. The advertisers on this page are at your service to assist you in planning, constructing, furnishing and beautifying your home.
